NUMURA WARNS JAPAN OF BEATING IN STORE AT HANDS OF UNITED STATES; LAND-BASED CRAFT POUND JAP ISLANDS

Well Might Warn His People, for U. S. Already Developing Its Aerial Assaults Against Japanese Island Bases in Central Pacific, Extending Operations in
S. W. Pacific and Pushing Forward Allied Ground
Forces in New Guinea.

By International News Service

Admiral Kichisaburo Numura, who could have foretold the Jap sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, today assumed the role of prognosticator for the Japanese when he warned them of the beating in store for them at the hands of the United States.

The envoy who sat in an ante-room at Washington at the hour that Jap planes bombarded the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands to start the Pacific war told the Japanese that America will increase its already mounting assaults on Nippon.

"Hereafter," he said in a Domei broadcast, recorded by the United States foreign intelligence service, "America's counter-operations against Japan, with Anglo-American sea power as the root, will be hastened and will steadily swell."

And well might Numura warn his people, for the United States already was developing its aerial assaults against Jap island bases in the central Pacific; extending their air operations in the southwest Pacific, and pushing forward Allied ground forces in New Guinea.

As air assaults by heavy American land-based craft pounded for the sixth consecutive day at the enemy-held Gilbert and Marshall islands, carrier based planes blasted the Jap airbase at Nauru with 90 tons of bombs.

The dome and shops were heavily hit and fires were started among installations. Several Nip planes caught on the ground were smashed, a small ship was set afire and

New Hope Group Makes Appeal For Fund

NEW HOPE, Nov. 20.—In its annual appeal for maintenance funds, the Public Health Nursing Association lists the community service it provides, to include a visiting nurse always available in emergencies, aiding doctors in various ways, dressing changes, etc.; weekly Well Baby Clinics on Tuesdays, checking weights, growth, and advising corrections, and a sick room supply closet, having equipment for loan to home patients. These services are provided without charge to those unable to pay.

Sharp Increase of Induction of Fathers

HARRISBURG, Nov. 20.—(INS)—A sharp increase in the induction of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers in December and January was forecast today in Pennsylvania in the wake of urgent telegrams to local draft boards from State Selective Service Director Richard K. Mellon. The draft board said their induction was "imperative."

Mellon took cognizance of the reported reluctance of some draft boards to call up fathers while many non-fathers and single men with occupational deferments were not inducted.

Draft board members were directed to disregard reports that Congress would take action to delay the induction of fathers. "Imperative that you proceed with processing and induction of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers notwithstanding newspaper reports," read the telegrams, which were forwarded to all 422 local boards on Wednesday. "The welfare of the nation demands that you do everything humanly possible to fill calls."

State Selective Service headquarters would not comment on the number of fathers being inducted this month pending the reports of local boards but it was admitted that the "very small" number of fathers inducted in October would be greatly increased.

There were indications that pre-Pearl Harbor fathers might make up the bulk of the December and January calls, which are now being assembled. In Allegheny county, it was disclosed, county and Pittsburgh city boards have been authorized to induct approximately 3,000 pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, almost double the number for November. One Pittsburgh board chairman asserted that "it means that at least 90% of our January quota will be pre-Pearl Harbor fathers."

Coal Dealers Agree On Co-operative Deliveries

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—(INS)—A co-operative delivery system which assures that "no one will be without coal this winter" was announced today by the regional office of defense transportation and a committee of retailers.

Dealers from Philadelphia, Bucks, Delaware, Montgomery, Chester and two New Jersey counties are represented on the committee.

Under the plan, the entire area is zoned, and all dealers have agreed not to make deliveries except within five miles of their yards. If a customer from another zone calls a dealer, he turns the order over to another in the customer's zone. When no dealer can make deliveries in the customer's zone, he is turned over to the nearest one in the next zone.

PART PIGEONS PLAY IN WAR AND PEACE IS PRESENTED BY CHARLES LOVE, PHILADELPHIA; INTERESTING PROGRAM FOR CLUB MEMBERS HERE

Members who attended the bi-weekly meeting of The Travel Club, yesterday afternoon, heard Charles Love, of Philadelphia, present the intriguing and instructive story of "Pigeons—Their Part in War and Peace."

Four members of the feathered tribe, including "Caesar's Ghost," made the journey to Bristol with Mr. Love, leaving their attractive "apartment hotel" on the 11th floor of a Philadelphia newspaper building so they might be exhibited here. In a cage placed on a table on the platform beside the speaker they "cooed" as Mr. Love told of the part they play in the present war, particularly when silent communication is so important.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Russell DeLong, who took charge of the program following the business meeting directed by the president, Mrs. E. Linton Martin.

Delving into the history of the homing pigeon, Mr. Love informed that such were used for carrying messages as early as 43 B. C. He gave as a basic background some information on their home-life, mentioning that once mated a pigeon remains true to that mate for a life-time; and should one of a pair die the other invariably dies of a broken heart. How the male bird takes his turn setting on the eggs, from approximately 10 a. m. to four p. m., was mentioned, the mother bird taking over the "night shift." "The male bird knows no calendar nor alarm clock, but you could set your watch by the time he goes to work and the time he quits," commented the speaker. Referring to "pigeon milk" which so many people regard as an idle term, Mr. Love stated there is such, and proceeded to give information on the "milkish" fluid secreted by glands near the throat. "The newly-hatched baby pigeon looks like an overgrown roach wearing a fur coat," he commented. The manner in which the adults place their bills over the bills of the young and feed them a drop or two of the "milk" at a time was told. On the fourth day the eyes of the young open and the tiny bird is ready for more solid food, the parents picking from their variety of grain the smaller particles for the young.

Mr. Love gave many interesting stories regarding work of pigeons during war-times. He recounted how during World War I, the Allies used 300,000 pigeons, 96 per cent of them delivering their messages safely. Another incident was how 196 of the 554 men in the "Lost Battalion" were saved during World War I, the last of seven pigeons finally getting a message through a distance of 25 miles after it had been hit by shrapnel and first landed in No Man's Land.

Advance made in the work with homing pigeons was mentioned, they being taught to fly back to trailers which could advance with the troops. "Thus the birds could be trained at camps in this country, sent to Tunisia and other war fronts, and would return to their homes on wheels with valuable information." Other information was on the manner in which the pigeons are being trained to fly after dark, some flying back to their lofts from distances of 60 miles. The greatest danger in night flying, stated Mr. Love, is from the owls which prey on the birds.

Specially constructed jackets suspended cradle-like from the interior of tanks makes it possible for the birds to be taken over rough terrain to the front. The club members were also informed that special tubes for the birds are constructed so they might be carried to high mountain outposts on the

Important To Advertisers

Due to the general conditions existing today in the newspaper publishing business and the shortage of manpower, it becomes necessary for the Courier to adhere strictly to a fixed time for the receipt of display advertising copy on and after November 22nd until after the Christmas holiday season.

All display advertising copy for insertion in The Bristol Courier must be at the Courier office not later than 12 o'clock noon, two days previous to day on which the advertising is to appear. We reserve the right to reject copy received after the designated time.

This rule is made necessary in order to give the mechanical department ample time in which to set the advertisement, and properly illustrate it. It is hoped that advertisers will cooperate and make reservations for space desired, and furnish their copy on time.

Will Endeavor To Increase Surgical Dressings Tuesday

The women of this area will endeavor on Tuesday next to make as many surgical dressings in the one day as they ordinarily do two days a week.

In order to accomplish this the hours have been extended for the one day, and all who have been in the habit of making surgical dressings for the Red Cross on either of the two days, are urged to reserve Tuesday for that work next week.

The hours such work will be carried out on November 23rd at the community house are nine a. m. to five p. m., and 7.30 to 9.30 p. m.

A "pot-luck" lunch is planned, each worker providing her own lunch, with tea being served to all.

Dressings will not be made on Wednesday due to that date immediately preceding Thanksgiving holiday.

Lead us into the closeness of this fellowship, O Father. Cause us to have such faith in Christ that we shall know Thee, for he who has seen Christ hath seen the Father. In His Name we pray. Amen.

Month Club. This is an enchanting story of poor Kentucky mountain folks, who never wore their pants out at the knees by work—although "the seat usually got too slick for a fly to light on and stick." What happens to snaggle-toothed grandpa and the other "relief Tussies" when they suddenly come into the incredible sum of $10,000 is a rousing, hilarious story. Written simply and convincingly, "Taps for Private Tussie" is a vividly real portrait of the carefree, colorful Kentucky mountain people.

It will be the first contest ever played between these two squads.

two of seven intercepting Zeros were downed.

Only one American pilot was wounded and no planes were lost as the Yank airmen struck at the base, some 500 miles west of the Gilberts. Observers were so impressed by the raid that they termed it one of the greatest blows made against the enemy in this part of the globe.

Simultaneously, other carrier-based planes raided Betio Island, part of the Tarawa Atoll, 400 miles to the northeast. Large fires were started in oil dumps.

And large Liberator bombers again hit Mille Island in the Tarawa Atoll and pounded Tarawa itself, as well as Meleolap in the Marshalls. No American planes were lost, although two were damaged in the Marshalls operations.

Other Allied airmen, attached to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces, surged from the Solomons to the Netherlands East Indies to harass the enemy. Five pre-dawn raids were carried out by medium and heavy bombers on the Buka area of Bougainville, and were followed up by escorted medium, torpedo and dive bomber assaults in which 71 tons of bombs blasted two enemy airbases and ground installations.

Four-engine Liberators struck at the Surabaya naval base at Java, requiring a 2,600-mile round trip, and blasted enemy oil fields and airbases on the island.

The first Allied assault of the war was dealt the enemy-held island of Bali, just east of Java. Other United Nations airmen broke up unsuccessful enemy raids on shipping in the Bougainville sector of the Solomons, although some casualties were inflicted when the Japs struck before dawn at our ground positions on the island.

Australian jungle-fighters, meantime, pressed to within a mile of the Sattelberg Mission on north-eastern New Guinea, overcoming difficult undergrowth and heavy enemy resistance. Details were lacking of progress of ground fighting on Bougainville.

In Europe, the Germans threw in huge tank and infantry forces in an attempt to retake the important rail junction of Ovruch, capture of which was announced last night by the Russians. Soviet air-borne troops established themselves in the town on the vital Leningrad-Odessa railway and repulsed repeated counter-attacks by the Nazis.

Other skytroops of the Red Army descended on the right bank of the Dnieper in the Cherkassy section, 60 miles southeast of Kiev, and caused enough confusion to permit other Soviet forces to force the river and drive to the town's approaches. Still other Russian units smarted under their first real setback since opening of the summer offensive when they were forced to evacuate recently-occupied Zhitomir, rail junction 75 miles east of the Polish border.

While the Germans struggled tenaciously on the eastern front, the air front over the Reich itself found them virtually helpless. In the wake of blistering raids on Berlin and Ludwigshafen Thursday night, powerful Royal Air Force squadrons struck again at the enemy-held continent.

Requiring three-quarters of an hour to pass a given spot, four-motored bombers of the RAF roared toward unidentified German targets this morning.

In Italy, the Allied armies probed at the German defense line amid unconfirmed reports by the Anglo-Americans had been greatly reinforced preparatory to a renewed drive toward Rome.

awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross. The information received did not explain for what the award was made, but it is known Lt. Fletcher has been in action over occupied territory or Germany on numerous occasions.

Lt. Fletcher and his Flying Fortress, which he has named "Bonnie," in honor of his wife, whom he also calls "Bonnie," have been together for a long time.

Prior to being sent to England in March, Lt. Fletcher used the same Fortress during patrol duty along the Atlantic Coast, including points off Virginia and Newfoundland.

Three new members were accepted at the semi-monthly meeting of Doylestown Post, No. 175, V. F. W., one of whom was initiated.

The newly-initiated recruit is Horace David Bellerby, of Doylestown, a veteran of World War No. 1, whose son, Kenneth, is in the U. S. Navy, at the present time. Others accepted in membership included Frank Price, on active duty in the Navy, and Atlee Fell, serving overseas.

raising of funds, and it was announced that replacement of furniture for the Harriet Naylor Memorial Room at the hospital was completed the past month. The organization is now planning to devote their time for the raising of funds for the new sterilizer room at the hospital.

At the Christmas meeting scheduled for Tuesday evening, December 14th, the annual collection of foods, jellies and nuts will take place, with all members requested to bring their donations in at this time. Anyone not a member of the organization wishing to contribute food which will be distributed in the hospital at Christmas time, is asked to contact the president or any auxiliary member. backs of dogs, then released with pictures or other information. Other tubes, holding homing pigeons, one on either side of the chest, are also used by paratroopers, the "pigeoner" being the last man out of the plane over enemy territory. After the "pigeoner" leaves the plane the jump master kicks out a specially constructed cage holding eight birds. This cage is attached to a parachute, and these pigeons are available for use of the paratroopers in case anything happens to the "pigeoner." Other fliers then after dark make special trips over the territory invaded and drop more pigeons for use of the men.

Mr. Love informed that of the 320 pigeons released during the evacuation of Dunkirk got safely through the shell fire and reached England. The speaker found interested listeners as he told of encasing birds in paper bags to prevent breaking of their wings when they are dropped from some planes. In other instances a plastic container houses each bird, atmospheric conditions acting in such manner on the plastic tube when it reaches a point 500 feet from the ground that it "opens like a flower." Other plastic tubes are equipped with screw-type propellers, the screw unwinding as the propeller revolves, thus releasing the one end and freeing the pigeon.

Exhibiting "Caesar's Ghost," Mr. Love told how he had personally operated upon him, removing a goiter. In telling of the structure of a pigeon the speaker mentioned that the bird is so built that it has perfect coordination between vision and muscles, "as its life depends on such." He told how manipulation of the wings in flight pumps air into the hollow bones of the body structure. Mentioning the various theories advanced as to how pigeons find their way to their home lofts, the speaker told that the one now generally accepted is that a "beam" is followed similar to the manner in which airplanes now find their way safely to bases. The minute organism used is located inside the ear drum. Tests have proven that birds with tightly sealed ears do not reach their home lofts.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. George E. Boswell, and Mrs. Elwood P. Goslin reported clearing $71.75 on the last card party. Serving as tellers during balloting for new members were Mrs. Harry Neher and Mrs. George Irwin.

Mrs. Willard Bartoe reported on current legislation. She mentioned several suggested bills, and gave some time to the Equal Rights Amendment, which is to be presented to the senate soon. The club endorsed this amendment.

An all-day forum, scheduled for committee.

the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia, on November 29th, was mentioned by the presiding officer. Three sessions are scheduled, with Dr. Katherine MacFarland reporting at that time on the re-examination of the 1,000 volunteers in the fight against cancer.

Members were reminded that the next meeting on December 3rd will be in charge of the public welfare
